

Keyheira Keys is a curator, producer, and entrepreneur based in Austin, Texas. Her work bridges art, storytelling, and cultural advocacy, with a focus on amplifying underrepresented voices and celebrating Black culture. She first gained recognition through managing the landmark “We Rise” mural at 12th and Chicon, sparking her ongoing commitment to public art and creative placekeeping.

Her curatorial projects have been featured at East Austin Studio Tours, the National Portrait Gallery of London, Northern-Southern Gallery, the Downtown Austin Public Library, the George Washington Carver Museum, and more. She has collaborated with artists such as Leta Harrison, Dawn Okoro, Adrian Armstrong, and James Gayles, creating platforms that challenge traditional notions of art and identity.

Beyond her curatorial work, Keyheira serves as a City of Austin Arts Commissioner and Manager of Partners, Sponsors, & Offsite programs at Dream Con, reflecting her dedication to creativity, authenticity, and community.
