(Motion by Commissioner Maldonado second by Commissioner Medicharla; approved 6-0-0, with Commissioners Keys, Garza, and Kracheni absent).

Additional Backup Information:

This commission is part of Phase III of the City’s AIPP initiative, implemented in collaboration with the AEDP at the Austin-Bergstrom International Airport (AUS). Developed in partnership by the Office of Arts, Culture, Music, and Entertainment and the Department of Aviation, the phased AIPP plan was approved by the Arts Commission in August 2024.

Phase III prioritized artists local to Austin and Central Texas, building on Phase II which prioritized the inclusion of Texas-based artists, and on the nationally focused Phase I. All thirteen commissions awarded in this phase were granted to Austin area artists, including this project. Phase III continues the City's focus on elevating local voices while delivering innovative, meaningful public art experiences in civic infrastructure.

These projects are part of a broader Phase III open Request for Qualifications (RFQ) process focused on talent based in the Greater Austin area:

- The Amenity Lounges & Spaces for Children panel convened on May 15, 2025, to review applications
- Finalist interviews occurred on June 6, 2025

Final Recommendation: Spaces for Children - High Energy

- Recommended Artist: Tabria Williford
- Spaces for Children Recommended Alternate: Iris Kwon

The recommendation was approved by the AIPP Panel on June 9 and affirmed by the Austin Arts Commission on June 16, 2025.

About the Artist:

Tabria Williford is a multidisciplinary artist and designer based in Austin, Texas, whose work bursts with energy, movement, and bold visual impact. Merging sculpture, color theory, and playful spatial design, her practice transforms everyday materials into vibrant, interactive experiences. Williford's installations often explore themes of joy, curiosity, and the power of tactile engagement, encouraging viewers of all ages to move, explore, and connect. Her dynamic aesthetic and spirited approach make her an ideal artist to design the high-energy space for children at the airport, creating an environment that sparks imagination, invites activity, and turns waiting time into an adventure.

Project Context Within the AUS AIPP Plan:

This project is one of thirteen Phase III commissions within the AUS AIPP program. While Phase I focused on national artists, and Phase II emphasized Texas-based artists (particularly those living and working in Austin), Phase III was reserved exclusively for Austin-based creatives.

This phased model:

- Ensures a balance of excellence and equity;
- Prioritizes meaningful engagement with local artists; and
- Aligns with the AEDP infrastructure timeline.
