Additional Backup Information:

The contract will provide training on fundamental concepts and skills to small business owners and entrepreneurs that will help them start a business, be successful, and grow. To help Austin's small business owners gain this knowledge the Economic Development Department's Small Business Division offers training on a variety of business topics. The contractor will provide training on 15 basic business topics, with 11 topics taught in classroom training sessions and four topics taught in hands-on workshops. The 15 topics fall into four topic areas: Organizational Development, Money Matters, Marketing Strategy and Human Resources. In addition, the contractor can adapt applicable topics to address business development needs specific to the creative industries and the non-profit sector.

This contract will replace the existing contract that expired on December 31, 2021. The contractor will be required to deliver up to 180 sessions over 38 months, while achieving an aggregate participant satisfaction rating of at least 90%. The recommended contractor is not the current provider for these services.

An evaluation team with expertise in this area evaluated the offers and scored Distance Learning Media, LLC as the best to provide these services based on organization's demonstrated expertise in delivering business training and coaching to small businesses, organization's demonstrated experience in managing comparable programs, personnel qualifications, cost proposal, management structure, local business presence, and service-disabled veteran business enterprise.

Strategic Outcome(s):

Economic Opportunity and Affordability.
